

Material flows today – primarily follow a linear economic model

Recycled material flows – primarily follow a circular economy model

